CHICAGO, August 3.—Archibald Moody and Herbert Kenwick, who live six miles southwest of Lodi, Illinois, owned in partnership one of the Ayresville bulls, lately imported by John Stewart, of Campton. Kenwick undertook to lead the bull from Moody's farm to his own, a distance of a mile and a half. An hour later John Pew, of Lodi, came to Moody and told him that he saw the bull fighting on the road with a couple of common stray bulls.

Suspecting something wrong Moody immediately started with Pew to the place where the animals were, and after search found Kenwick thrown over a fence, dead, with a horrible hole in his side, and otherwise gored and bruised.
